

The Gay Report: A Survey Of Homosexual Sex Habits

Traditional Values Coalition Education and Legal Institute, 139 C St. SE, Washington, DC 20003;

In 1979, homosexual researchers Karla Jay and Allen Young published The Gay Report, a more than 800-page book describing the sex habits and attitudes of homosexuals.

The book is based upon responses from 1,900 sex survey responses from homosexual males, 1,000 from homosexual females, and 2,500 from Blueboy magazine questionnaires. (Blueboy was a Miami homosexual newspaper.)

The Gay Report is an obscene book, but it gives an accurate overview—from homosexuals themselves—of the deviant lifestyles they lead.

In this summary of quotes from The Gay Report, we have avoided quoting many of the obscene comments made by homosexuals about their sex habits.

Male Homosexual Sex Habits

Chapter 13, "Erotic Variations Of Some Gay Men," listed statistics from hundreds of homosexuals who responded to the Jay & Young survey on sex habits. On page 555, the authors list 13 different sexual activities. Homosexuals admitted that they "very frequently engaged in the following activities: sadomasochism, 13%; bondage and discipline, 10%; urination (water sports), 23%; defecation, 7%; enemas, 2%; bestiality, 6%.

Homosexual males admitted to very frequently engaging in three-some sex acts—32% "very frequently" and 20% "somewhat frequently." Twenty-four percent admitted to "very frequently" engaging in sex orgies; 24% admitted to "very frequently" engaging in group sex or sex orgies; another 16% admitted to "somewhat frequently" engaging in group sex or sex orgies. (p. 587)

Promiscuity: Male homosexuals who responded to the Jay & Young survey indicated that they are highly promiscuous. In Chapter 7, "Gay Men: Reaching Outward, Looking Inward," Jay & Young published statistics on how many sex partners homosexuals had in a week, month, year, and lifetime. The statistics on lifetime partners revealed that 15% had from 1-10 partners; 17% had 11-25; 20% indicated 26-50 partners; 6% had 51-75; 7% had 76-100; 8% had 101-200; 4% had 201-300; 6% had 301-1,000; 17% had thousands or "many." (pgs 248-249).

One respondent to this part of the sex survey noted: "Promiscuity is a heterosexual concept which is used to attack us .... I find it dehumanizing, sexist, and ultimately damaging to the psyche. If you speak in terms of 'sexual freedom' and sharing of sensual experience, it can be a fine thing. I guess it all depends upon motives."

Monogamy: Homosexuals also have a different definition of what monogamy means in a relationship. In Chapter 9, "Gay Men: Couples, Singles, and the Butch/Femme Question," homosexual males were asked to describe how they view fidelity, monogamy, and jealousy.

Here are several responses:

“Monogamy is a form of insecurity expressed chiefly by clutching at someone, and clutching most often leads to strangulation.”

“We were strictly monogamous for the first three years, but have included three other friends in threesomes in the past year.”

“When I begin to get emotionally involved with someone, I find it’s a good idea for me to have sex with other people so I don’t become obsessed.”

“Monogamy means having one spouse at a time, and what gays usually mean is the issue of having a lover and having sex with others. This is more appropriately labeled sexual exclusiveness or non-exclusiveness.”

“I could not be true in a monogamous contract with another gay male. Gayness and promiscuity go hand in hand, in my opinion.” (pgs 358-359)

Female Homosexual Sex Habits

In Chapter 12, “The Specialized Tastes Of A Few Lesbians,” female homosexuals responded that they “very frequently” engaged in the following activities: sadomasochism, 0%; bondage and discipline, 1%; humiliation, 1%; fisting, 1%. Six percent admitted to having sex with animals—but not frequently. (pgs. 512-521.)

Thirty-eight percent of female homosexuals admitted to engaging in sex acts with three people; 16% had been involved in sex orgies.

In Chapter 8, “Lesbian Relationships and Role-Playing,” female homosexuals responded to questions about promiscuity and monogamous relationships.

Promiscuity: Female homosexuals had the following lifetime sex partners: 62% had 1-10 sex partners; 24% had 11-25; 11% had 26-50; 1% had 50-300; and 2% indicated “hundreds” over a lifetime. (pg. 324)

Monogamy: Here are several responses to the question of monogamy:

“I have sex outside the relationship, and we talk about it openly. So far it has had a positive effect.”

“I have sex with the woman I live with and with my other lover.”

“One-nighters are okay for each of us if nothing better comes along.”

“We both have sex outside of our relationship. We both feel it enriches our sex together and our own sexuality.” (pgs. 326-327)

Views On So-called Gay Marriage

In Chapter 9, homosexuals express their views on so-called “gay marriage.” Here are a few of their responses:

“Marriage is a sham. A means for the state to intrude on private relationships. Don’t legalize gay marriage—outlaw straight marriage!”

“Marriage should be restructured and abolished by the state.”

“Marriage should be abolished.” (pgs. 363-364)

Sex Habits Remain The Same Today

Although this book was published in 1979, the fact is that homosexuals continue to engage in the same sexual activities today—even as AIDS continues to spread among homosexuals.

TVC’s report, “Homosexual Behavior Fuels AIDS and STD Epidemic,” cites a CDC report from November, 2003 documenting the increasing spread of HIV among homosexuals in 29 states in 2002.

The report also quotes Dr. John Diggs, who published “The Health Risks of Gay Sex” for the Corporate Resource Council. Diggs notes that homosexuals typically engage in oral and anal sex, rimming (mouth to anus contact), fisting (insertion of the fist and arm into the anus), golden showers (urination), sadomasochism, and the insertion of such objects as bottles, flashlights, and even gerbils into the rectum.

In addition, many homosexuals are engaging in “barebacking” parties, which are sex orgies including several individuals who are HIV infected. Some homosexuals are “bug chasers,” who deliberately seek to be infected. Rolling Stone (January 2003) detailed this practice among many homosexuals.

Homosexuals continue to infect each other and to engage in behaviors that can kill them.
